How to log in to your student area

Click on student log in
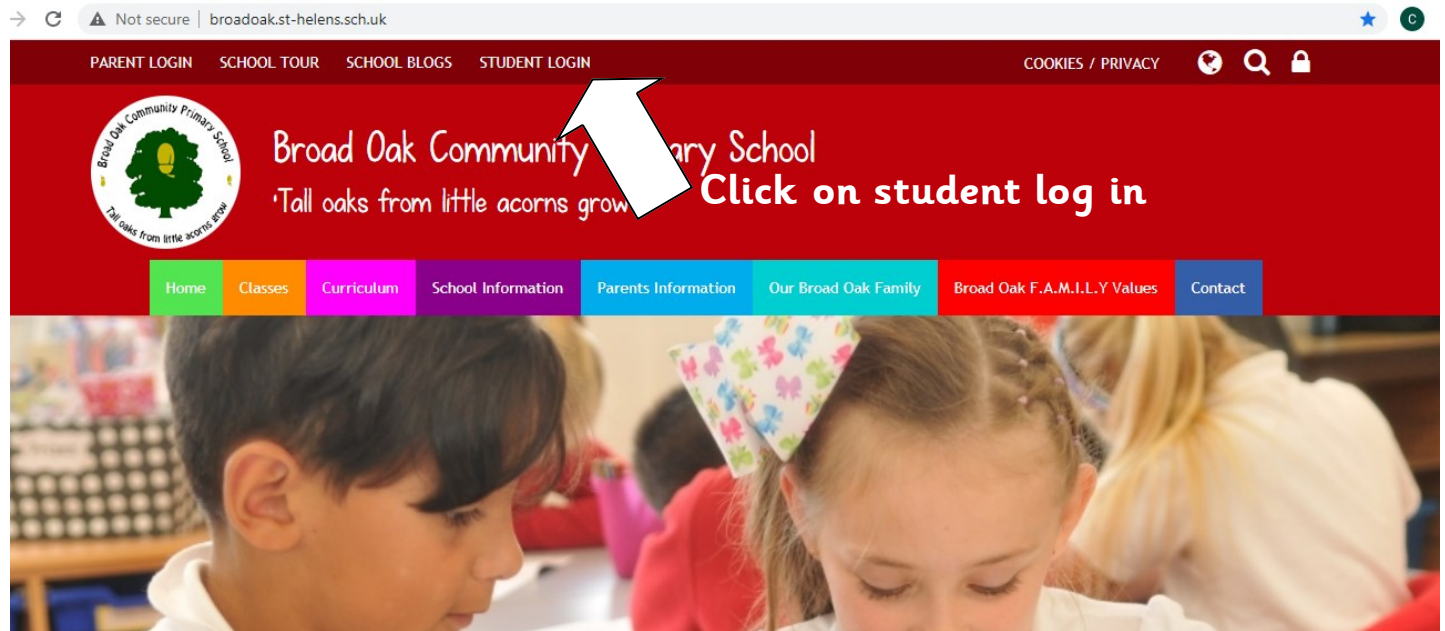

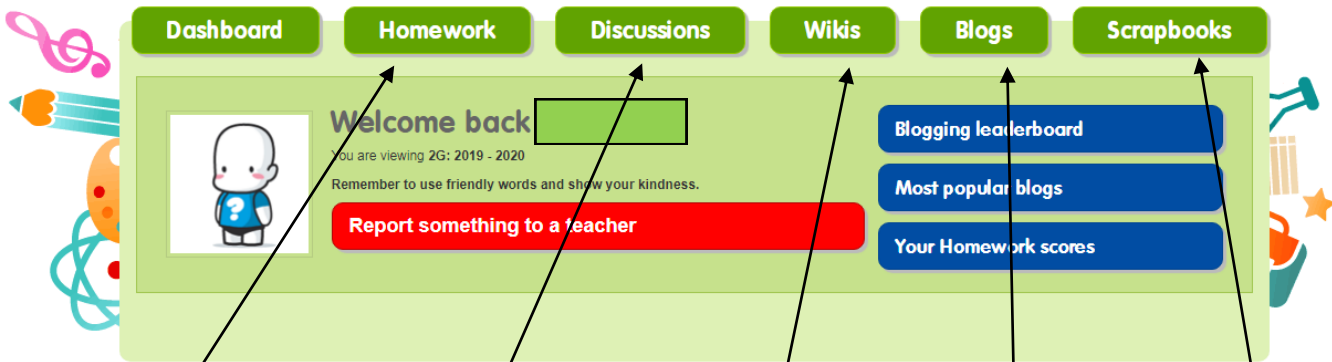

Enter your name and password. You are now logged in!

Your teacher can set homework for you here.

Your teacher can set a discussion topic, that you can comment on.

A wiki is an information page that you can start and others can add to.

A blog is like a diary or chat that other people can comment on. It might be what you have done that day.

You can create your own scrapbook using text, images and videos. Make sure you ask for permission first of anyone who is in the picture before you post it.

Have fun but be kind! Your teacher can see and take down any comments and deny anything that is not age appropriate.